MEDICINAL.

This important organ weighs but about three pounds, and all the blood in a living person (about three gallons) passes through it at least once every half hour, to have the bile and other impurities strained or filtered from it. Bile is the natural purgative of the bowels, and if the Liver becomes torpid it is not separated from the blood, but carried through the veins to all parts of the system, and in trying to escape through the pores of the skin, causes it to turn yellow or a dirty brown color. The stomach becomes diseased and Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation, Headache, Biliousness, Jaundice, Chills, Malarial Fevers, Pries, Sick and Sour Stomach, and general debility follow. MER-RELL'S HEPATINE, the great vegetable discovery for torpidity, causes the Liver to throw off from one to two ounces of bile each time the blood passes through it, as long as there is an excess of bile; and the effect of even a few does upon yellow complexion or a brown, dirty locking skin, will astonish all who try it—they being the first symptoms to disappear. The cure of all bilious diseases and Liver complaint is made certain better the control of the contro diseases and Liver compisint is made certain by taking Hepatine in accordance with directions. Headache is generally cured in twenty minutes, and no disease that arises from the Liver can exist if a fair trial is given. Take no pills when you can get Hepatine at the same price. For sale by all Druggists. PRICE 25c and 81.

Grave mistakes are made in the treatment of all discases that arise from poison in the blood. Not one ease of Serofula, Epphilis, White Swelling, Ulcerous Sores and Skin Disease in a thousand is treated without the use of Mercury in some form. Mercury rots the bones, and the diseases it produces are werse than any other kind of blood or skin disease can be. Dector PEMBERTON'S STILLINGIA or QUEEN'S DELIGHT IS the only medicine upon which a hope of recovery from Scrotals. Recent explorations of several caves in Kentucky have resulted in the discovery of important and interesting relies of aboriginal life, and conclusively established the fact that they were used at least as temporary residences or places of shelter. Salt cave, especially, reveales a new phase of American arebreology. This cave approaches the Mammoth cave in the size of its avenues and chambers. Throughout one of the principal passages, for several miles, were bark, were found in several places in the cave; and cane reeds, probably of the same character as those found in the Manmoth. Short and Grand avenue caves were also very abundant. Penetrating three miles from the colrance into Salt care, a chamber was entered where the dust of unnumbered years lay thick upon the recky floor. Here no human bones were found; there is every indication that particular eavis were used exclusively as places of sepulture, while other carse, as to this care, served on places of habitation; but in the day soil were countless imprints of the stadaled feet of the former race which dwelt in these subterranean homes, and all about lay the orideness of their

Here some of their gress woven saedals, worn through as the heel and on the ball of the foot, had been cast aside; there lay a discarded mantle of cloth made of the shreds of bark, dyed in dark and light stripes, and showing where it had one; been neatly monded, while on every side were fragments of back cloth, packages of back thread prepared for weaving, torn bits of tringe or tassel, dishes cut from gourds, arrow heads of flint, premy shells, bored undoubtedly for use as ornaments, and other relies or the aboriginal household. Careful examination of the whole warrants the opinion that this was an agricultural people; that they first used the cares only as a place of burial, wrapping the body, with the knees drawn up to the chia, moremy fashion, in blackets of back, and laying it away in the innermost depths of these caves with the obsets of its earthly affection, its weapons, and perhaps some food placed near it, but that afterward, possibly under the pressure of that invasion of a more savage people from the North which seems to have caused the extermication of the earliest inhabitants of the southern valleys, they resorted to the caves for secrecy and safety until compelled to abandon the country altogether. The use of braided grass in the manufacture of sandals and other articles of clubiog, and, indeed, all the re-mains indicate an antiquity far greater than anything we know of the red Indians inhabiting that region at the time of its settlement by

EAGLES CHASING WILD DUCKS .- On Satorday afternoon a number of persons upon the wharf of the Detroit and Milwaukee railroad were attracted to look upward by a loud quacking overhead. They saw a flock of wild ducks chased by a pair of eagles. One of the ducks in the rear of the reat had folded its wings. probably from fright, and was being precipitated by its specific gravity toward the open wator below like a cannon ball, when one of the eagles swooped downward and seized the falling bird just as it reashed the water. The next moment the eagle ross with its prey and flew toward the woods in the rear of Walkertown. Its mate was seen following the flock of ducks natil last to sight in the distance above Belle Isla, - Detroit Free Pres.
